

Miss Louise Silver is absent from work in Bolster's store because of illness.

Rev. Edward Allen Morris, the pastor, entered on his duties at the Madison Congregational church, Adams St., on Sept. 12, delivering the first sermon in the service of the Fall session. Mr. Morris is the seventh pastor of the church. He was born in Baltimore and received his education in the public schools here and at Millikin University, Decatur, Ill. John Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., was the place where he received his B. D. degree in 1921 and the Yale Divinity School where he received his B. D. S. D. degree. He was formerly of St. Paul's Episcopal church, Madison Ave. Congregational church at Madison St. He married Miss Thelma Jacobson of New Vineyard on June 28, 1920.

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS IN FRAN BECK'S GARDENS

several beautiful varieties, presented to the Advertiser Office by Frank H. Beck, are from his gardens on Whitman street. Mr. Beck has nearly an acre under cultivation, for he specializes in dahlias and gladioli for the trade. He has sweet peas, zinnias and asters in abundance, but his hobby is raising rare dahlias of large size, and gladioli of perfect bloom with colorings representing 53 varieties.

and 8000 gladiolus; the returns have been unusually good considering long spells weather. Many blooms have been killed during the summer, but the real harvest is in the fall when tubers by the thousands are gathered into a store house for next spring's trade.

Mr. Beck has developed a large business and lists his products in a neat catalogue just brimming over with information for the lover of real flowers. He is a member of the American Gladioli Society.

If the weather man can hold back killing frosts for two weeks, a large display of blossoms from the Beck Gardens may be seen in the fall during County Fair.

Mr. Beck will take personal charge of his exhibit.
